The Architectural Heritage Fund is the sole data controller of all personal and business data that we manage in connection with our work and activities.

Your data protection rights

Our data protection policy has been updated to reflect the new General Data Protection Regulation (as of 25th May 2018). The policy sets out a range of rights for people on the use of personal data and include (but are not limited to):

- The right to be informed about how we use your data
- The right of access to your data
- The right to have personal data rectified so that it is accurate
- The right to have your data erased (under certain circumstances)
- The right to object to or restrict how we use your data

If you send us information about you from this site, unless we state otherwise, we will not use this information other than to answer your query or for the purpose made explicit. We may keep a record of your enquiry to help us develop our services. We never pass on personal data to third parties.

How we use your personal data

We will only use your personal data when the law allows us to. Most commonly, we will use your personal data in the following circumstances:

- Where it is necessary to deliver our services;
- For us to carry out a specific task in the public interest which is laid down by law; or
- For our legitimate interests (or those of a third party);
- Where we need to comply with a legal or regulatory obligation.

If your organisation makes an application or a pre-application for a grant or loan, we will use any information you supply in accordance with our data protection policy, and as advised during the application process e.g. to make payments, for money laundering and fraud prevention checks.

Purposes for which we will use your personal data

Unless otherwise stated we will only use your information to communicate with you about:

- our project support services;
- loan, grant or other investment application or award;
- to publicise any grant or loan awards and sending our annual review;
- for loan, grant and investment recipients, our annual project survey.

You have the right to request we share with you any data we may have on our systems related to you.

If we do hold any personal information related to you, you have the right to request access to it and to know on what legal basis we are holding it. Please e-mail us on admin@ahfund.org.uk with any requests.
